The living are the only dead; The dead live-never more to die; And often when we mourn them fled, They never were so nigh.

And though they lie beneath the waves, Or sleep within the churchyard dim— (Ahl through how many different graves God's children go to him!)

Yet every grave gives up its dead Ere it is overgrown with grass! Then why should hopeless tears he shed, Or need we cry, Alas!

Or why should memory veil'd with gloom, And like a sorrowing mourner craped, Sit weeping o'er an empty tomb Whose captives have escaped!

The but a mound—and will be mossed Whene'er the summer grass appears; The loved, though wept are never lost; We only lose our tears.

Nay, Hope may whisper with the dead, By bending forward where they are; But Memory, with a backward tread, Communes with them afarl

The joys we lose are but forecast, And we shall find them all once more; We look behind us for the past. But lo! 'tis all before!

Physical Requisites for Worldly Success. To win the prize in the world's great race

A man should have a brazen face; An iron arm to give a stroke,
And heart as study as the oak;
Fyes like a cat, good in the dark,
And teeth as piercing as a shark;
Ears to hear the gentlest sound,
Like moles, that burrow in the ground;
A mouth as close as patent locks.

A mouth as close as patent locks, And stomach stronger than an ox; Historique should be a razor blade, His conscience india-rubber made; His blood as cold as polar ice,

His hand as grasping as a vice; His shoulders should be adequate To bear a couple thousand weight; His legs like piltars, firm and strong, To move this great machine along; With supple knees to cringe and crawl, And cloven feet placed under all.

A devoute minister was once asked by a skeptic if he followed preaching to save souls! and upon replying that he did, Gold, Silver, Steel and plated Spec-tacles; the cavilier rejoined:

"Did you ever see a soul?" "No."

"Did you ever hear a soul?" "No."

"Did you ever smell a soul?"

"No." "Did you ever feel a soul?"

"Yes, thank God," said the preacher. "Well," said the caviling doctor, "there are four out of the five senses against one that there is no soul."

So the matter might have dropped but the preacher, as subtle in understanding as he was pieus in beart, turned the table upon the caviling doctor, and being informed that he was a doctor of medicine, asked;

"Did you ever see a pain?" "No."

"Did you ever hear a pain?" "No.

"Did you ever smell a pain?" "No.

"Did you ever feel a pain?" ""Yes," said the doctor.

"Well, then," rejoined the preacher, "there are you see, also four senses against as pain; and yet, sir, you know that there is with many other devices, together with a good as such a thing as pain; and I know there is a soul."

.The doctor appeared confounded, and
